

The ID4Africa Forum and Annual Meeting brings together representatives of four stakeholder groups concerned with eID. These are:

Stakeholder	Who
IDENTITY AUTHORITIES AND USERS	Government: National identity authorities and government agencies managing population registers, civil registers, healthcare programs, biometrics programs, registration and enrolment, national identity card schemes, operations, processes and infrastructure for national identity management and delivery of e-Government services. Public sector users of identity include government agencies responsible for home affairs, public security, law enforcement, border management, elections, taxation and finance, communication and information technology, labour, social security, health care and social protection. Commercial: Telecom operators, financial institutions, insurance companies, health care providers, agricultural cooperatives, airlines, transport operators and enterprises that need to manage the identity of their employees or customers.
INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AGENCIES	International organizations that include global and regional development banks, international development agencies and private foundations providing financing for social protection initiatives, national infrastructure projects, capacity building and technical advisory services to help accelerate Africa's socio-economic development.
SOLUTIONS PROVIDERS	Leading providers of solutions for electronic identity management in the public and private sector, including: System integrators <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Technology and system providers and their local vendors</li> <li>• Value added resellers</li> <li>• Suppliers of identity consumables and eID documents</li> <li>• Biometric System developers and providers</li> <li>• Registration and Enrollment System developers</li> <li>• Enrollment, Identification, Verification and Processing Service providers for Residents</li> <li>• ICT Infrastructure resellers</li> <li>• Other providers of related Products and Services</li> </ul> These include international and regional entities, as well as local partners.
DOMAIN EXPERTS	Identity experts from all over the world who have first-hand experience of implementing electronic identity schemes and infrastructure. These include experts from international organizations, independent consultants and subject matter experts in identity and biometrics, and representatives of successful government eID schemes that can share lessons learned.